March 2015

President's Message

Dear WIFV,

Happy March! This month (besides willing spring to hurry up and get here) we continue to mark our 35th anniversary year with several exciting opportunities to celebrate, network, get recognized and even shake your groove thang. If you haven't already gotten your ticket for the anniversary dance party at Policy on March 12, there's still time. In addition to birthday cake, a DJ spinning 70's music and photo booth antics, all attendees will get a free drink on us and a ticket for a chance to win one of several great door prizes (see related article).

March also marks Women's History Month and a time to reflect on the awesome (and I mean that literally) contributions that women have made across industries and throughout society. We take it as an opportunity to highlight the breadth and depth of talent here in our own community. The idea was simple: to every day highlight a woman from the WIFV membership who has made her own invaluable contribution to the media industry. We have used the campaign to honor independent filmmakers, screenwriters, sound designers, company owners, animators, directors of photography, editors, make-up artists, and many other creative and technical experts.

To honor that spirit of community and sisterhood, we ask you, our members, to give a dollar for every day in the month - a $31 tax deductible contribution - to help support all WIFV does to advance the careers of women in media. This year, we're taking it up a notch - $35 for 35 years. An anonymous donor has agreed to match all contributions up to a total of $1,000. Make your donation here. The campaign is more than a fundraising effort; it's a metaphor for WIFV itself. When we stand alone our resources are limited, but together we can move mountains. Imagine what $35,000 over three years could mean to locally-produced documentaries! Together, we

35 Women in 31 Days

The theme for 2015’s Women’s History Month is Weaving the Stories of Women’s Lives. It is an “opportunity to weave women’s stories - individually and collectively - into the essential fabric of our nation's history.” (National Women's History Project) What a perfect theme for WIFV! You are all storytellers.

We further celebrate our storytellers by saluting one of our members every day in March. This year, to celebrate our 35th Anniversary, we will feature 35 women! We’ll post the bios of the selected women here.

How can you celebrate Women’s History Month? Join us at the WIFTI Shorts-case on March 8; contribute to the $35 for 31 Women Campaign; watch women-made films; make progress on your own projects!

BLANK SLATE (Blank Space Oscars 2015 Commentary)

Each year, Women and Hollywood brings you produces a video that illuminates their feelings about the Oscar season. This year, three generations of the Athena Film Festival team took on that task to bring you, with a ton of smartness and creativity, their version of Taylor Swift's "Blank Slate."

Navigating Public TV: Doc Roundtable Summary

By Matt Radcliff

Kathryn Washington, Robyn DeShields, and Ramona Diaz give their perspectives and advice on Navigating Public Television.

Kathryn Washington, from the Corporation of Public Broadcasting (CPB), started the evening by describing the public television system as a confederacy. There are many gatekeepers, but that also means there are multiple ways to get a documentary on air. Read full article here.

Mission, 1606 20th Street, NW (Dupont North)
RSVP here

WIFV has begun a new initiative to connect with the younger members of the film community in the DC area. This is the sixth of many events to spread awareness about WIFV and build a strong under-30 network.

Storytelling with Arla Bowers
Celebrate Women’s History Month with us as we join forces with WIFV to present Indie in DC: Deconstructing Storytelling. We will use visuals from a cult classic film to illustrate how “screen magic” happens when filmmakers combine effective screenplay components with their own unique vision. From the page to the screen, you will learn what makes a narrative screenplay its own unique art form. You’ll see how a great script cements audience enjoyment for generations? Join us as we explore format, structure, character development, dialogue, and theme, as well as the literary, dramatic, and cinematic aspects of film.

Your indie instructor, Arla Bowers is an award winning producer and scriptwriter. She has received recognition for projects such as Facing the First and Twenty Questions. She also produced Mary Pickford’s Gift to a New Generation which aired on cable. She has developed a three year moving image curriculum, “Lights, Camera, Literacy!”

Environmental Film Festival, March 17-29
By Rana Koll-Mandel

The Environmental Film Festival in the Nation's Capital, March 17-29, is the largest and longest-running environmental film festival in the country and the largest film festival in Washington, D.C. The 23rd annual Festival presents over 160 films selected to provide fresh perspectives on a wide variety of environmental issues facing our planet. A special focus on "Climate Connections" explores the impact of climate change on our world. The 2015 Festival features cinematic work from 31 countries and 96 Washington, DC, US and World premieres.

The 2015 Festival features 87 women filmmakers, and as of late February, nearly one-third will be attending, speaking and leading panel discussions following their screenings. Some are known locally, while others will be familiar to the WIFV-DC member community for their national and international acclaim. Some notable filmmakers coming to D.C. for the Festival include actress and environmentalist Kristin Davis, Margarete Jangard, Juliet Brown and Dechen Roder, Director of the Bhutan Film Festival.

Filmmakers Cosima Dannoritzer, Kaylanee Mam and Dyanna Taylor will be honored as featured speakers at the WIFV Executive Breakfast to be held at Restaurant Nora on Tuesday, March 24, 8:30 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. We appreciate the support of Restaurant Nora and VideoTakes for this event. RSVP here

Other local women filmmakers whose films will be screened in this year's Festival are Harriet Getzels, Liz Norton, Kathryn Pasternak, Alice Day, Vanina Harel, and Emily Wathen. Also, returning filmmakers include Sandy Cannon-Brown, Aditi Desai, Sarah duPont, Peggy Fleming, Grace Guggenheim and Marilyn Weiner.

As the leading showcase for environmental film in the United States, the Festival is presented in collaboration with over 100 local, national and global organizations and is one of the largest cooperative cultural events in Washington, D.C. Films are screened at over 55 venues throughout the D.C area, including museums, embassies, libraries, universities and local theaters. Over 80 percent of programs offered are free.
Key Take-Aways: Packaging your series for television
By Liliane Mavridara

Notes from the “Packaging your series for television: how to pull it all together” with Jim Arnoff. January 29, 2015. You can see Katharine Roman’s summary here.

Networking is key to this business and authentic name drop and titles, do catch attention. Also, if you are recognized through a pipeline and/or by development execs, i.e. 3rd party validation.

Sizzle Reels need to be less than 3 min long and ideally within 30 sec its main message must be clear. Execs know in less than a minute if there is a hook.

Always go for an in-person meeting, and do not put material in the portal because you can always change it following your meeting.

Smoozing is about 10 min of talk building the connection, i.e. talk about the kids, an event you went to, what you are working on.

Always know who you are pitching to, and when you decide to pitch, go full out. If you are afraid they will steal your show/idea, they will feel that you are holding back.

You need to know where you are in your career, at what stage, and discuss what will be your role with the production company. Be specific about what you bring to the collaboration.

When you are thinking of pitching, consider what is your unique hook and perspective because every idea has already been pitched. Consider also the talent, CGI, as well as what is the specific time period you are looking at.

Show your passion, value and what you can contribute, especially if you make your own sizzle. Know your demographics and audience, your brand.

Comedy/drama is the main focus of Hulu, Netflix and Amazon; high quality, edgy scripted content but you can pitch anything to them.

When you hire an agent or entertainment lawyer make sure they are in your field, i.e. theater vs TV.

Your sizzle must give all the essential information and answer all questions the exec may have. Never read nor leave anything with an exec.

If you don't know what the network is looking for, do a side pitch, i.e. "what I am working on is..." and see how they respond.

The best ways to reach a Network Executive for TV programming are, 1) to go through a production company that has recently pitched an idea similar to yours, 2) to find the show-runner (or senior producer), and 3) to hire an Agent.

Jim Arnoff is a Television Packaging Agent representing New York production companies (reality, documentary, non-fiction and animation) in developing and selling original programming to the networks and new media. He is an entertainment lawyer and Certified Life/Career Coach to the entertainment industry. Jim worked at the William Morris Agency as both an in-house lawyer and packaging agent.
Monthly Dinner & Movie!

WIFV is delighted to announce a new partnership with the Woman's National Democratic Club to present a dinner/movie night once a month. In March 27 we present short films from the Environmental Film Festival.

Alice and Lincoln Day, filmmakers of the award-winning documentary, Scarred Lands and Wounded Lives: The Environmental Footprint of War, will host the premiere of five short films (four to seven minutes each). The program will feature a discussion with the audience and a panel of two local peace and climate-change activists, Linda Pentz Gunter, Beyond Nuclear, and Ted Conwell, Climate First! Inc., and Steve Michelson, a prominent expert in the field of documentary film.

The short films - opening with What We Have Left Behind in Iraq and closing with Forging a New Ethic - represent a progression from the despair we feel about the toxic environment the Iraq war has left behind to the hope that real change is possible through creating alternatives to military force and building a new ethic of interdependence with the natural world. The audience and panel will be encouraged to comment critically on the short films as potential change makers. Alice and Lincoln will moderate the discussion.

Woman's National Democratic Club
1526 New Hampshire Ave, NW (Dupont)
$25 (Light Supper & program) Cash Bar
RSVP here

Dinner & Movie will happen the 4th Friday of the month and subsequent events will feature films made by regional filmmakers. So save the dates!

Supporter Spotlight: arvold

Supporter Spotlight recognizes the work and contributions to the industry of WIFV's supporters. As a 501(c)3 community benefit organization, WIFV relies on financial support from companies, individuals, foundations, and government entities. To find out how your company can support Women in Film & Video, please contact Melissa Houghton at director@wifv.org.

arvold. is an award-winning organization that provides casting, production and education services to a wide spectrum of clients. Founded by producer/casting director Erica Arvold in Charlottesville, Virginia, arvold. collaborates on a variety of film, television and commercial projects and is dedicated to not only serving the integrity of each creative vision, but aims to simultaneously raise the bar of the Mid-Atlantic film market.

Over the past 25 years, Erica Arvold has contributed and participated in the making of over 150 films, 75 television projects and numerous short form and commercial endeavors. Casting credits include Steven Spielberg’s Lincoln, AMC’s Turn: Washington’s Spies, Ithaca, Kicked By Grace, National Geographic and Scott-Free’s Killing Kennedy and Killing Lincoln, Big Stone Gap, Hot Air, and Lake Effects. Arvold served as associate producer and casting director on the indie films Coming Through the Rye, Wish You Well, and Texas Rein. She cast and produced the psychological thriller House Hunting and is producing the feature film Chesapeake.

arvold.casting casts film, television, theatre, regional and national commercials, industrials, and web series.

arvold.production creates and produces film, television and commercial content and provides production support for many local and visiting projects. Select clients include the Martin Agency, Abandon Films, UVA Health Services, Mountain High Media, and Richmond International Airport.

arvold.education hosts workshops, panel discussions, and master classes for film artists by integrating both the philosophical and the pragmatic aspects of sustaining a film career. arvold. provides informational content (videos and blogs) to further educate actors and crew.
The very core of arvold. is its team members, who create a collaborative, professional, positive experience in all aspects of the company and its work. The common thread in arvold.’s diverse endeavors—casting, production, and education alike—is the belief that those who are film artists are not only pursuing a noble profession, but that their work and vision is a profound and honorable contribution to the world.

Erica Arvold is a member of the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences, the Casting Society of America, and Women in Film & Video. arvold. to-do list: 1. have fun, 2. be kind, 3. collaborate, 4. smile, 5. create www.arvold.com

WIFV Fiscal Sponsorship Application Deadline
The WIFV Board of Directors is pleased to offer a fiscal sponsorship program to support the film and media projects of its members. WIFV believes this initiative to be a tremendous member benefit and that this program furthers our mission to provide resources for women in the film, television and media industry. The WIFV Fiscal Sponsorship Program is a financial and legal system where our 501(c)(3) public charity provides limited financial and legal oversight for a project initiated independently by a filmmaker. That project must be non-commercial in nature, i.e. not produced solely for financial gain. Sponsored Projects are eligible to solicit and receive grants and tax-deductible contributions.

While many fiscal sponsorship programs exist for filmmakers, WIFV presents a known and trusted entity for its members. We further differentiate our program by offering a mentoring component with accomplished WIFV members, by providing access to the WIFV Executive Director and her knowledge of funding resources, and by bringing the power of our programming events and workshops to address key education needs. We look forward to the many successful film and media projects that WIFV will help usher into creation through our fiscal sponsorship program.

There are two calls for Fiscal Sponsorship Applications per calendar year; one in the spring and one in autumn. A non-refundable Application Fee of $50. is required at the time application.

The 2015 application deadline dates are April 27, 2015 for the spring round and October 19, 2015 for the fall round. More info and application materials here.

Seed Fund Needs YOU!
WIFV is raising funds for a new Seed Fund for Documentary Filmmakers! Make your donation here. We hope to give $10,000 in grants every year for at least the next three years, but that depends on your generosity. Your donation is tax deductible to the fullest extent of the law. Your contribution is a seed that will help a film grow!

You can add your name to this list and support the work of this community with your contribution.

Call for WIFV Members in the News Articles
What’s the best way to brag about your accomplishments? With a Members in the News article, of course. Not only can you include a photo and your website, it is archived at www.wifv.org and adds to your SEO.
Submit your paragraph, jpg photo, and any links to director@wifv.org by the 5th of the month.

Call for Award Info

If you have won an award, screened at a film festival, or received a major grant, please let me know so we can share your success. Send the info to director@wifv.org
