November 2014

President's Message
Dear WIFV,

It was wonderful seeing so many of you at the Fall Open House. Our thanks once again to Microsoft for letting us use their beautiful space; to Monica Lee Bellais and Chad Bartlett for pulling together the great images from the Spotlight on Screenwriters catalogue; to Yolanda Arrington for spearheading effort to create a gallery of member work; and to all of who contributed your work to the Member Gallery.

If you haven't already, please sign up for the ScriptDC, November 14-16. I attended last year and was blown away by the quality of the program, the access to top notch, industry-leading speakers and the quality of the interaction with and access to the speakers. It's a conference on par with anything I've been to in Austin, LA, San Francisco or NYC -- with the price tag that's a fraction of the cost. It's another way that we're working to bring you the experts and resources you need to build your skills and your network - no matter where you are in your career.

Seeing so many familiar faces and meeting some of our newest WIFV members at the Open House, being privy to the preparations for ScriptDC and getting a sneak peek of the amazing array of writing talent on display in the Spotlight on Screenwriters catalogue has all reinforced for me what a strong and diverse community of media makers we have here in the DC metro area.

It also reinvigorated my personal commitment to working to help raise the profile of all of the amazing works that's happening here. I had the privilege of sitting in on a focus group for the DC Council on Arts and Humanities last week focused on the creative economy. As I told the

Open House Premieres - Gallery of Members’ Work & Seed Fund
It was very exciting to premiere the WIFV Member Gallery at the Open House in October! You can access the list of contributing members here.

WIFV President, Erin Essenmacher, also announced the fundraising phase for a new Seed Fund for Documentary Filmmakers! Your contribution is a seed that will help a film grow!
interviewer, we already have a strong creative economy here and an amazing breadth and depth of talent turning out groundbreaking work in venues across the country and around the globe.

From companies like Hillmann & Carr creating multimedia work for museums across the country, to organizations like Stone Soup Films who harness the power of volunteer talent to support local nonprofits, to Meridian Hill Pictures led by fourth generation DC residents who are turning out award-winning documentaries, to some really amazing both short and feature-length narrative film work coming from a variety of our members -- the media arts community in DC has some of the most exciting and versatile work of any film community in the country.

That said, I don't think DC gets the "halo effect" - the credit, if you will - for that work. I fully believe we could be the Silicon Valley of media -- but we need to work together. We need to continue to work with the Mayor's Office, the DC Film Office, and other local organizations to create an economic infrastructure that supports not only the creation of work - but the promotion of that work, showcasing all of our homegrown talent and helping to export that work to other parts of the country. We also need to show producers coming in from other parts of the world that we have the talent right here that can support and enhance their productions.

WIFV is one of many groups helping to lead the charge on this effort but we need your help. We want to hear from you about what you would like to see here in DC to help support a more robust creative economy - what kind of facilities, infrastructure or other support would help you do what you do more or better?

Please send your thoughts to and ideas to wifvpresident@gmail.com so your voice can be heard as we continue this effort.

Thanks, as always, for all that you do to support a vibrant media arts community in DC and beyond.

Best,
Erin

35 Years - 35 Members in Oct! Thank YOU

You did it! We welcomed 35 new members in October! Thank you for being our ambassadors.

Make your donation here. Applications for the $2,500 grants will be available in the Spring (of course). We hope to give $10,000 in grants every year for at least the next three years, but that depends on your generosity. Your donation is tax deductible to the fullest extent of the law.

Weds One - Navigating the Film Festival Circuit
November 5, 2014, 6:30 to 8:30 pm
Interface Media Group, 1233 20th Street, NW
$15 WIFV Members; $30 Public
RSVP here

Charting a course for your film’s festival run is a challenge. With thousands of festivals around the world, the road can be time-consuming, frustrating, and expensive. Expert programmers Andrea Passafiume (AFI Docs) and Jon Gann (DC Shorts), along with filmmakers and festival veterans Karen Whitehead (Her Aim is True) and Jason Osder (Let the Fire Burn), will tell you how to set realistic goals, find festivals well-suited to your film, put your best entry forward, and prepare for a fruitful festival experience.

WIFV Board Member Bannon Preston (Interface Media Group) will moderate.

Representing Your Brand Through Your Image

You will learn how to build an influential brand without sacrificing your health, wealth or relationship. The seminar is presented by Melissa Dawn Simkins, President of the Velvet Suite and Creator of Women In The Spotlight.

You will also receive wardrobe tips to help present and further define your brand’s image from top wardrobe stylist, Lani Inlander, Owner/Stylist for Real Life Style. Lani has been helping clients look and feel their best for 15 years. Her fashion expertise has been featured in In Style, New York Magazine, The Washington Post, and Washingtonian.
Recommendations from current WIFV Members mean so much when someone is contemplating membership.

Headshot services will be provided from 5:30 to 6:30 pm by Event Photography of North America Corporation and Liz Roll Photography for an additional $25.

In this age of blogging, social media, podcasts, live storytelling, YouTube, easy video editing, and on-demand publishing, entirely new opportunities have opened up for artists of all kinds. This workshop shows participants how to have what Laura Zam calls a "First Person Career." Using personal story as a central sphere, Laura will share a method for generating--and organizing--disparate projects in a way that's more focused, more gratifying, and more lucrative.

Zam has done this with her own story, turning it into an Off-Broadway play, public speaking, a blog, workshops, and several published pieces (appearing in The New York Times and The Huffington Post). This workshop will include writing, sharing, and lots of discussion about possibilities in this

Double R: A Visionary for Image Makers

In celebration of WIFV’s 35th anniversary, Double R Productions produced a video to highlight Image Makers, WIFV’s tried-and-true program that nurtures new generations of media makers. Double R President Rosemary Reed expanded her presidency outside of Double R to serving as WIFV president in 1997, the year Image Makers was founded.

Reed assigned Double R Producer Catherine Baum to interview Keri Williams and Mimi Machado-Luces, co-chairs of Image Makers, in the insert studio at Double R. Baum wrote a script that Paul Jamali, a rising Double R star, edited the promo, incorporating bells and whistles to celebrate this worthy WIFV program. WIFV member and Production Assistant Monya Bundy sorted through years of production photos and PSAs produced by Image Makers for this project.

Watch the video to learn more about how Image Makers helps students help the community. Happy Viewing!

O'Keefe Communications Thrives on Variety

Fried chicken, digital citizenship, Maya Angelou, affordable housing, gender parity, Hilary Clinton, electronic payments, live streaming, victims of stalking, image mapping, the President of the United States, a mariachi band, GUI...these are just a few of the topics, communication techniques and people that have been featured in videos and events produced by O'Keefe Communications in 2014. "This type of variety is what our company thrives on," says Catie O'Keefe, President of O'Keefe Communications. "Our clients come to us with all types of communications needs and we love the challenge of determining the best media and type of event to support and convey their message."
Founded in 1979, the same year as WIFV, this woman-owned media and event production company is marking its 35th anniversary this year. Learn more at www.okeefecom.com.

WIFV Weds One - Making Media for Outreach and Fundraising

Wednesday, December 3, 6:30 to 8:30 pm
Interface Media Group, 1233 20th Street, NW, DC (Dupont Circle South Metro)
$15 WIFV Members / $30 Public
RSVP here

Ah, the holidays! Good cheer, family, friends, and fundraising campaigns. Our December Wednesday One is a master class with a producer whose appealing films have catalyzed a whole lot of giving. Liz Norton's experience spans from the White House to MTV and PBS. Now she is Executive Director of Stone Soup Films, where she has mobilized DC's production community to create close to 60 films for area non-profits. Norton will share her expertise in crafting media that opens hearts, minds and wallets. Stone Soup clients will discuss the incorporation of media into a non-profit's fundraising strategies.

WIFV/Docs in Progress Documentary Roundtable - Making a Living in a Fair-Use-Friendly World

Monday, December 8, 6:30 to 8:30 pm
Interface Media Group, 1233 20th Street, NW, DC (Dupont Circle South Metro)

Fair use, the use of unlicensed material in documentary, has become a routine feature of documentary production; broadcasters and insurers are now accepting it as a matter of course. But documentarians now have new questions. When a broadcaster uses my doc to explain their news story, can they do that without paying me? When a media company tells me I have to get clearances for everything, how do I tell them the current realities? Just how risky is fair use these days? And who's got my back if I get a cease and desist letter?

Patricia Aufderheide will share the latest research from the Center for Media & Social Impact, the results of a 500-filmmaker survey that shows a dramatic shift in industry practice, and discuss how knowing the limits of fair use can make it easier to collect a license when it's your due.
