Breaking Through the Clouds
By Heather A. Taylor

This is the inspiring true story of 20 women who raced across America in 1929. With just a compass and a road map to guide them, Amelia Earhart and 19 other brave pilots defied convention by taking to the skies and racing across the country for the first Women’s National Air Derby. Facing cultural stereotypes, mechanical failures, threats of sabotage, navigational challenges, and endless chicken dinners, the women became pioneering legends in aviation. Their story is inspiring to anyone who has the courage to follow their own dreams. Produced, directed, and written by WIFV member Heather A. Taylor, Archetypal Images, LLC.

Fall Seven Times, Get Up Eight
By Karen Kasmauski

Three Japanese war brides trace their tumultuous journey to America as the young wives of US soldiers and civilians. Atsuko, Emiko and Hiroko were among tens of thousands of Japanese women who married American soldiers after World War II. They landed in 1950s America knowing no one and speaking little English. In brutally honest conversations with their respective daughters, they reveal the largely untold story of the Japanese war brides.

Directors Lucy Craft, Karen Kasmauski, and Kathryn Tolbert tell the stories of their respective mothers as journalists, but also as the mixed-race children who experienced firsthand their own mothers’ struggles. Drawing on personal anecdotes, family photographs and archival footage, FALL SEVEN TIMES, GET UP EIGHT paints an intimate portrait of the Japanese war brides saga and helps bring to life this often forgotten episode in American and Japanese history. The Last Song Before the War
By Kiley Kraskouskas

THE LAST SONG BEFORE THE WAR is a feature-length documentary that captures the inspiring rise and uncertain future of Mali's annual Festival in the Desert. Against the backdrop of stunning musical performances, the film subtly reveals the challenges and triumphs of creating an artistic event in such challenging economic and political circumstances. After 12 years of success and unforgettable musical moments, the Festival in the Desert came to a halt in 2012 when separatist rebels and Islamic militants seized control of Northern Mali. Before My Eyes
By Caroline Bock

"Someone is falling in love...someone is popping pills...and someone is hearing a voice and has a gun. But no one wants to see what is happening right before their eyes." The new young adult novel from St. Martin's Press called, "GRIPPING" by Publishers Weekly and Kirkus Review and an "Unflinching thriller...thought-provoking" by Bookpages. Appropriate for ages 14 and above and adults of all ages. Go to www.carolinebock.com

Born Beautiful Biracial
By Tanya Hutchins

With a Foreword by Olympic Gold Medalist Dan O'Brien (Decathlon), BORN BEAUTIFUL BIRACIAL is a compilation of children's essays with advice for kids who are asked questions about their racial and ethnic backgrounds: "What are you? Are those your parents? Are you adopted?" Regardless of how we look, we live in a multicultural, multiracial world, a world where many consider Barack Obama the first black President of the United States. Barack Obama is biracial. Maybe, one of the children who reads this book may even grow up to be President one day. Hopefully, by then, it won't be such a big deal, because everyone will accept each other unconditionally. Callaloo and The Legend of the Golden Coqui
By Marjuan Canady

My team and I are back again celebrating the folklore stories of the Caribbean Diaspora but this time we are journeying to Puerto Rico! This book is influenced by an Ancient Taino legend and contemporary Nuyorican culture. The book features the beautiful and dynamic illustrations from my fellow Callaloo creator, Nabeeh Bilal. It's not only a great read but an excellent way for kids to enhance their literacy and cultural education skills. Pre-Orders go through December 18th. We have some great additional products and discounts when you pre-order at www.callaloothebook.com.

Fatropolis
By Tracey Thompson

Most of her life Jenny has felt she's not good enough, not attractive enough, because she's fat. Then one day she stumbles through a portal between a world that values thinness and one that values roundness. Sometimes falling can wake you up. Order your copy here.

Two Books by Debbi Mack

Identity Crisis, a Sam McRae mystery. A simple domestic abuse case turns deadly when the alleged abuser is killed and Stephanie Ann "Sam" McRae's client disappears. When a friend asks Sam to find Melanie Hayes, the Maryland attorney is drawn into a complex case of murder and identity theft that has her running from the Mob, breaking into a strip club and forming a shaky alliance with a private investigator to discover the truth. Available at Amazon, Barnes & Noble, and

Music

A Very Chaise Lounge Christmas

On this dazzling Xmas album, film composer Charlie Barnett's martini-jazz sextet makes ancient carols sound utterly fresh and delivers seasonal originals so comfortable that you could swear they were standards. "This is a quasi-retro juggernaut of cool in top form," writes Midwest Record.

"[The album] is so groovy you can play it year-round." "Chaise Lounge is a delicious, subtle, swinging ensemble" adds noted jazz critic Ken Borgers. "Here, at last, is new music for the season!" Order your copy here.

Poems

By Inger McPhail

"All that I have seen teaches me to trust God for all that I have not seen." This quote by Ralph Waldo Emerson speaks profoundly of the lives of three amazing female family members of the writer, Charvette. Using the name of paternal grandmother E. Vera Allen, the writer gives life to the characteristics found in her grandmothers and a great-aunt. These wise, caring women knew happiness, sorrow, anger, and betrayal. Their lives span periods in African-American history when communities transitioned from Jim Crow-laden breeding dens to multicultural neighborhoods. These poems give voice to the lives of these remarkable women. Order here.

When Duty Calls

By Faith DeVeaux

What would it take for you to appreciate what you have in life? The near-death of the one you love? Anita Anderson, married for over thirty years, was becoming bored with her life. Then the unthinkable happened, her husband had a heart attack, then fell into a coma. Her estranged children come home, and she decides to reunite her family once and for all. Anita brings out her beloved letters that she saved from when her husband fought in Vietnam. After rediscovering her buried passion for life, she decides to share them with as many people as possible. Order your copy here.

Three class sessions, over three weeks, to help you develop secondary characters, dialogue, non-linear structure, enhanced performance skills, and stories of varying lengths to be performed on stage. Students are encouraged to pick an upcoming show to prepare for during this three week workshop. We have workshops starting on January 6th, and January 26th, in Reston, VA. For more details and to register for upcoming workshops click here.

Spotlight on You: Telling the story of your life $75
A half-day workshop for storytellers of all levels. Students should come with an idea for a story and will leave with a story ready to tell. We have 2016 workshops on: January 9th - in Reston; January 23rd - in Arlington; and February 6th - in Reston. For more details and to register for upcoming workshops click here. We will make every attempt to accommodate switching workshop dates if that special someone can't attend the workshop you register them for.

Better Said Than Done defines storytelling as the art of performing a true, personal story in front of a live audience.
Our stories are personal. Each storyteller writes about his or her own experiences. They are true, though, like every good story, they sometimes come with enhanced details. And they are a story, meaning they have a beginning, middle, and end. Better Said Than Done, Inc., was launched in May 2011, by Jessica Piscitelli Robinson, to bring the art of storytelling to Northern Virginia. Click here for more information on upcoming shows, performers, or workshops.
